Use leveled text to help your middle school students prepare for test success.

Kaplan Focus on Reading uses leveled text to give middle school students effective reading strategies they can apply on standardized tests.

- ▶ Strategies for scanning and previewing, reading actively, and answering multiple-choice questions help your students perform better on standardized assessments.
- ▶ Reading passages at three levels (below, approaching, and at test level) allow educators to differentiate instruction based on students' independent reading levels.
- ▶ Robust notes help educators implement research-based instructional practices and adapt them to meet classroom needs.
- ▶ Formative assessments and a practice test measure student progress and success.
